

2012 Regional Council Process & Consolidated Funding Applications

Background:

The Regional Economic Development Councils are a community driven, regional approach to economic development in New York State. Each Council is made up of 20 to 30 business, academic and government leaders from throughout the Region. In 2012, the Senate and Assembly majority committees selected one member from each region to be a voting Regional Council member.

In 2011, each of the ten Regional Councils were tasked with developing a five-year strategic plan that included a comprehensive vision for economic development for that region, regional strategies to achieve that vision, and specific priority projects that are significant, regionally supported and capable of stimulating economic investment.¹ Empire State Development Corporation developed a competitive process in which Regional Council Strategic Plans containing recommendations for funding made by each Regional Council were reviewed by a Strategic Plan Review Committee consisting of two State Agency Commissioners and three economic development experts. Members of the 2011 Review Team included: Dall W. Forsythe, Senior Fellow at the Wagner School of Public Service at New York University and former Vice President for Finance and Operations at The Atlantic Philanthropies; Walter D. Broadnax, Professor of Public Administration at The Maxwell School of Syracuse University; Bruce J. Katz, Vice President at the Brookings Institution and founding Director of the Brookings Metropolitan Policy Program; Joan McDonald, Commissioner of the New York State Department of Transportation; and Cesar Perales, New York State Secretary of State. On December 8, 2011, the Governor and Legislative Leaders announced the winners of the first round of competition and one year later 97% of Round One projects were under contract and/or progressing.

In 2012, the Councils went a step further and produced Strategic Implementation Agendas that built upon the progress from the first round and further developed and refined their Regional Five Year Strategic Plans by undertaking four primary activities: Establishing a framework to advance the Regional Strategic Plan; Implementing the strategies laid out in the Strategic Plan; Creating a project pipeline; and providing a progress report documenting the success the Council has had in implementing its Strategic Plan. These actions were designed to encourage and accelerate implementation, performance, and collaboration within the regions. Priority projects that aligned with each region's agenda were chosen by the Councils from the applications submitted to the Consolidated Funding Application portal. These projects were published in the regions' Implementation Agendas, which are publically available online at www.regionalcouncils.ny.gov. Projects were scored by both the state agencies and the Regional Councils. The agencies scored their projects based on a technical evaluation in adherence with existing funding program guidelines and awarded a project up to 80 points. The remaining 20 points were awarded by the Regional Councils, and were based off the following endorsement standards:

Statewide Endorsement Standards

Regional Council members will determine the degree to which the application implements the regional strategic plan and assign the corresponding number of points as a score.

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PLAN	DEGREE	POINTS
The proposal is identified as a priority project by the Regional Council.	Priority	20
The proposal is identified in the plan and has regional benefits.	Very Strong	15
The proposal advances the plan and has local benefits.	Strong	10
The proposal is consistent with the plan and has project level benefits.	Moderate	5

2012 Competition:

To incentivize the implementation process, the Regional Councils competed for $220 million in ESD capital funds and tax credits based on their Implementation Agendas. In 2012, five awards of $25 million were made. The competition was split into two parts:

- First, the four regions with the 2011 Best Plans competed for two awards of up to $25 million each in capital funds. Awards were made based on the progress the Regional Councils have made implementing their strategies and evolution of their strategic plans as outlined in their submitted Implementation Agendas including any revisions or updates.
- Second, the remaining six regions competed for three awards of up to $25 million each in capital funds. Awards were made based on the progress the Regional Councils have made implementing their strategies and evolution of their strategic plans as outlined in their submitted Implementation Agendas including any revisions or updates.

The balance of the $25 million in capital funds was divided among the five remaining regions. Each region will also be eligible for up to $10 million in Excelsior Tax Credits to help attract and grow business in the region.²

According to the enabling legislation as passed by the New York State legislature and signed into law by the Governor, “funding will be pursuant to a plan developed by the chief executive officer of the New York state Urban Development Corporation and based in part on a competitive selection process among the Regional Economic Development Councils and will support initiatives based on anticipated economic development benefits. Such moneys will be awarded by the New York State Urban Development Corporation at its discretion.”³

To reflect the changing nature of the competition, the 2012 Strategic Implementation Assessment Team was led by Secretary of State Cesar Peralas and included Office of General Services Commissioner Roann Destito, Tax and Finance Commissioner Thomas Mattox, Environmental Facilities Corporation CEO Matthew Driscoll and Agriculture and Markets Commissioner Darrel Aubertine with support from the Brookings Institution, vis a vis Bruce Katz and Amy Liu. The SIAT reviewed each region’s Implementation Agendas based on established criteria and also traveled to each Region to view and tour the progress first hand. Each tour included a panel presentation that allowed for ample question and answer opportunities between the SIAT and Regional Council members. Each of the ten Regional Council visits included a tour of projects funded in the 2011 CFA which demonstrated Regional Council progress and accomplishments.

The SIAT provided an assessment of each plan⁴ and made recommendations to Kenneth Adams, President & CEO, Empire State Development Corporation of the five reports that most closely aligned with these criteria.⁵ President Adams accepted the recommendations of the Committee and, pursuant to his statutory powers as head of the Urban Development Corporation, awarded five regions with the top Implementation Agenda up to $40 million in funding consisting of $25 million in capital grants and $15 million in Excelsior tax credits for priority projects identified in their Strategic Plans. The balance of the incentives was awarded to projects identified by the Councils as in alignment with their strategies and priorities.

In addition, project sponsors applied for up to $600 million in economic development resources available from ten state agencies through the Consolidated Funding Application (CFA). The CFA allows businesses and other entities to apply for multiple agency funding sources through a single, web-based application. Awards for CFA projects were made based on the endorsement of the local Regional Council⁶ and the technical program review of the agencies providing resources, subject to interagency team analysis and agency discretion.⁷

In 2012, the CFA opened for applications on May 3 and closed on July 14. Prior to that, all details about CFA resources were made available online via the 2012 CFA Resources Available Document, the State Register and the New York State Contract Reporter. When the portal closed on July 14, agencies immediately began marking projects eligible or ineligible. All eligible projects were then made available to the Regional Councils for their scoring process and the agencies for their technical evaluation. Scores had to be finalized by September 15. After the SIAT Tours concluded, the Inter-agency team met to review the projects and make final funding decisions.

The interagency team reviewed projects based on relevant factors including Regional Councils Implementation Agendas and designation of priority projects, project alignment with regional goals and objectives, funding availability and regional need.⁸ Priority projects are those specifically enumerated in the Regional Council Reports, receiving a score of 20 from the Regional Council, and identified as significant, regionally supported and capable of stimulating economic investment.

The interagency team once again consisted of professional staff from relevant agencies and authorities' with detailed knowledge of their respective CFA program funding. This group conducted an analytical assessment that provided the basis for project funding recommendations made by individual agencies for final approval by respective agency or authority head. As provided in the budget, the Regional Council capital fund was awarded by ESD in its discretion.

This process resulted in funding of projects that aligned with a long term, regionally generated implementation agendas and are capable of stimulating economic growth and investment.

On December 19, 2012, the Governor announced that 725 projects totaling $738 million had been awarded through Round Two of the Regional Economic Development Council initiative. Best Plan awards were given to Central New York, Mid Hudson, Southern Tier, North Country and Finger Lakes in adherence to the competition guidelines detailed above.

WESTERN NY REGIONAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL

Assessment of the 2012 Progress Report

Part One: Strategic Plan Update

Building on the 2011 Strategic Plan

A. Addressing weaknesses identified in the 2011 assessments

The Western NY Regional Economic Development Council (WNYREDC) improved upon the 2011 strategic plan's list of priority projects by following the Guidebook template and providing budgets that included sources and uses for the 2012 priority projects.

The 2011 strategic plan assessment pointed out that several of the priority projects for CFA Round 1 did not include specific timeframes for implementation. This has been corrected in 2012 for projects already under contract. The failure to create an implementation plan which sets forth in detail the future work of the WNY Regional Council was also a weakness in 2011. This has been addressed, in part, in the work group progress reports which show work group implementation agendas.

B. Building upon strengths identified in the 2011 assessment

The WNYREDC progress report showed a continued reliance on a dual approach to achieving economic success and societal advancement by advancing three core strategies and eight industry sector strategies. The WNYREDC continued its commitment to a coordinated, inclusive process, engaging workgroups in strategy implementation and imbuing them with responsibility for tracking progress.

Strategies

The three core strategies and eight industry sector strategies remained unchanged. Updates were provided for all but two sector strategies, higher education and professional services. (No explanation was given for the omission.) Each core and sector strategy included in the report contained a section called "Looking Ahead," which provided context for the actions and priority projects the WNYREDC advance for 2012-2013. In addition, the work group agendas explained why the strategy was chosen for implementation.

One of the core strategies is "Prepare our Workforce." It is one example of how the strategies include both State funded and non-state funded activities and projects. For example, to advance training focused on manufacturing and skilled trades, the WNYREDC had a priority project that created an urban technician training center; used work group members to identify best practice models for apprenticeships programs and communicate with regional companies to identify training and workforce needs; and got corporate partners to commit to career fairs, internships and tuition assistance for students continuing studies or certification programs.

Implementation Agenda

The WNYREDC work group progress updates include an explanation of why the strategy was chosen for implementation, and a description of progress and future tasks of the work group, all with specified timelines. The implementation items in the work group progress updates show a wide range of initiatives being pursued that are largely outside the purview of state funding and other such actions. An example is found under the heading “Create the Global Energy Hub”.

Updates on 2011 funded projects (pages 10-36) include future tasks and their suggested timeline. Responsibility for implementing the tasks is not assigned.

The progress report also includes an update on the progress made on “Reforms to Allow Businesses to Thrive” that were part of the 2011 strategic plan, which identifies next steps.

The priority projects descriptions contained in the progress report followed the REDC Guidebook template. This resulted in information about proposed 2012 priority projects that was on a scale far beyond that found in the 2011 WNY strategic plan. For example, priority projects descriptions included detailed sources and uses information. Note that while the 2012 priority project descriptions do not address project readiness, one of three threshold questions for projects under consideration by the WNYREDC was whether the project is ready for implementation.

Part Two: Progress Made Implementing Strategies

Progress

A. Organizational progress

Eight work groups, which take their charge from one of the core or industry sector strategies, implemented strategies to support the Council’s development goals and continued to make recommendations and contribute content for the strategic plan update. New in 2012 was a communications work group. How the WNYREDC interacts with the work groups and other institutions in the region is not set forth in any detail in the progress report.

The progress report does not discuss the WNYREDC project pipeline, but it appears that the work groups are involved. WNYREDC did list the threshold criteria for “any project” along with the characteristics projects must reflect to address WNY’s opportunities and challenges.

B. Examples of progress

Eighty-three percent of the 2011 funded projects were identified as progressing on schedule and 11 percent were moving slower than anticipated. No discussion or description of why projects were moving slowly was provided.

One 2011 project which is advancing promotes advanced manufacturing support facilities to expand opportunities in materials research and related manufacturing, the Alfred University High Temperature Materials Characterization Laboratory. The Alfred University Lab has already provided critical research support to several major NYS companies and small fuel cell development companies. It is being used by large companies such as Corning, Delphi, Kodak and General Electric as well as smaller companies with a potential for growth.

The 2011 “Dream It, Do It” priority project reached nearly 900 students in its first year. The program seeks to build capacity in the five counties of WNY to promote advanced manufacturing careers, provide internships and expand apprenticeship programs for students who want to stay in WNY to pursue a career in advanced manufacturing.

The region has demonstrated progress implementing strategies through non-state funded actions. Examples of this are found in the entrepreneurship work group report which describes organizational efforts for a forgivable loan program, and the smart growth work group report of a collaborative approach to creating a revolving loan fund.

Leveraging of Resources

For 2012, the WNYREDC proposed to use $57 million in state funds to leverage $80 million in non-state resources. Seventeen of twenty-one priority projects have some degree of non-public sources of leverage, although the private funding sources could be better identified.

There are a number of examples of how funded 2011 priority projects are using institutions and partnerships to advance strategies, such as the Buffalo Urban Development Corporation serving as the single source of contact for downtown development projects funded through the 2011 CFA and guiding grant recipients through issues such as permitting and project financing.

Some 2011 CFA projects are also serving as a catalyst for entrepreneurial activity and emerging technologies, such as the Z80 Labs technology incubator; CenterSpace, which will serve as a cross sector collaborative workspace; and Alfred University’s High Temperature Materials Characterization Laboratory which has already provided critical research support to several major NYS companies.

Performance Measures

The progress report lists eleven indicators which will be used to measure progress implementing the strategic plan. It provides the current regional picture for each indicator, and whether an increase or decrease in the indicator values will reflect success. The sources of the data are not given. The indicators listed are all of a “macro” nature (region wide) and will not discern differences within the region in progress in addressing the strategies. It is not clear how the data will be used to modify strategies.

The updates of each of the funded 2011 Priority Projects include “progress on implementation” and a “future tasks” timeline. Some sense of project specific performance can be gleaned from this information. Through the project award contract, WNYREDC has made awardees responsible for completing an annual progress report.

Process

According to the report, more than 1,000 people contributed to the plan update through a collaborative, community-based engagement with the region's public and private partners. More than 100 stakeholders from the public and private sector participated in focused roundtable meetings that addressed international trade/talent development, land transformative investments, industry innovation and commercialization, and pathways to manufacturing careers.

Tools used to inform and engage citizens and stakeholders included online FAQs, information brochures, CFA workshops, monthly e-newsletters, and a speakers' bureau. WNYREDC members led more than 30 presentations.

WNYREDC work groups served to engage the public and stakeholders and to augment WNYREDC knowledge and expertise. (It's unclear whether work group members are representing organizations, i.e. are partnering with the WNYREDC.) Each work group addresses a distinct strategy and is charged with making recommendations, contributing content for the strategic plan, and working toward implementation of the strategies.
